

MR. QUARTERBACK™ TIPS AND GAMES

The receiver's job is to get free from a defenser at the line of scrimmage. You must run the pass pattern quickly to get open and, of course, make the catch. These drills and plenty of practice with Mr. Quarterback will help you become a better pass catcher.

Wide Receivers are the "speed-burners" of the receiver corps. Their counterparts, the tight ends, must not only be good pass catchers, but are also called upon to be a blocker on running plays. Speed, toughness and good hands are keys to any good receiver. It is also critical to learn how to run good pass patterns/routes.

Don't forget - your hands must be correctly positioned in order to properly catch the ball. Spread your fingers, keep your eye on the ball and hands when catching the ball. Your outside hand always touches the ball first. Start off catching the ball from 5 yards away and build up your distance/pass routes from there. Watch the ball all the way into your hands (or armpit).

Now for some serious training:

Solo/Group Drills - Note: always warmup before playing. Stretch out first before running pass patterns. Pick up your speed/distance as you warm up.

Simple warm-up drill - Lay down on your stomach. Get up as quick as possible to catch the ball from Mr. QB. Start with 5 yard patterns and build up from there

Learn to catch the "High ones". Set the angle of Mr. Qb so it throws slightly over your head. Run a "down and in" pass pattern. This is good pass catching practice. You can also use this drill as you're running downfield. Have the ball thrown slightly over your left or right shoulder. Try catching the ball with one hand and bringing it in securely to your body.

Practice running simple pass, patterns. Run simple 10-yard square-out patterns, while your friend runs 10-yard button hook. Trade off which receiver Mr. QB is passing to or have a friend control the machine. Rotate positions.

Catch It Drill – Stand a minimum of 5 yards from Mr. QB (Note: make sure the distance controller is set on the 5 yard setting). Practice catching the ball with your hands/arms away from your body. No chest/arm pit catches!

Wrong Shoulder – have a friend control the Mr. QB launcher. Have them launch the football over the wrong shoulder as the you run down the field for a pass.

Fun Group Activities/Games

All Time Quarterback or Receiver: Who is going to the hall of fame? See who can launch or catch the longest pass. Each player gets 3 turns.

Catch the Pass – who can catch the most passes in a row? Drop one and you're out!

3 Flies Up – the first receiver to catch 3 balls (passes or punts/kickoffs) wins the game

Mummy Catch – Players spread out with one player controlling Mr. QB. Players stay in the game if they catch the ball from Mr.QB. If the ball is dropped the player sits down. The last player in the game who has not dropped a pass wins.

500 – Group activity. Mr. QB launches the ball with manual activation by one player. That player (the "passer") yells out a point value between 50 and 500 while the ball is in the air. If a player catches the ball they get as much points as the "passer" yelled. If the ball is dropped, they lose the same number of points. The first person to 500 wins.

Hoop Throw – great for testing how well you control the amazing Mr. QB launcher. Hang a hoop (hula hoop style plastic hoop) from a tree/pole. Modify the distance depending on age/skill of player. Start at 15' and move back from there. For better players, swing the hoop so it is moving. Also, great training for developing quarterbacks. Option: use Mr. QB football or other football and practice your individual throwing through the hoop.

MACHINE OPERATION

By adjusting the distance control knob, Mr Quarterback can throw passes from 5 to 30 yards. Timer based passing action lets you load Mr. QB and go out for a pass without any assistance! The manual switch lets you and a friend play in tandem. You can adjust the launch angle and even have Mr. QB launch punts and kickoffs.

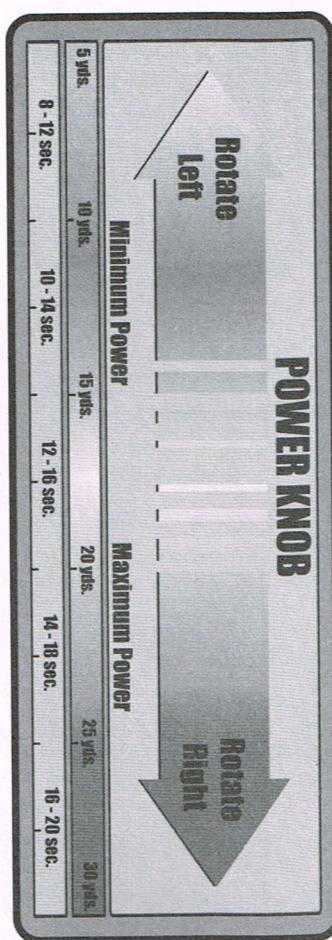

Play Time

Take the Mr Quarterback passing machine outdoors to an open area free of objects, including power lines. Give yourself plenty of room because you are going out for some long passes! Mr. Quarterback does not require cords and is completely portable.

Place Mr Quarterback on a level surface. Adjust the vertical angle knob as pictured to adjust angle of pass.

Adjust the distance meter to determine length of pass. Follow the attached chart (chart 1) or reference the chart on the top of the Mr. QB passing machine:

LIGHT BLUE - GREEN - YELLOW - ORANGE - RED
COLOR ARROW:

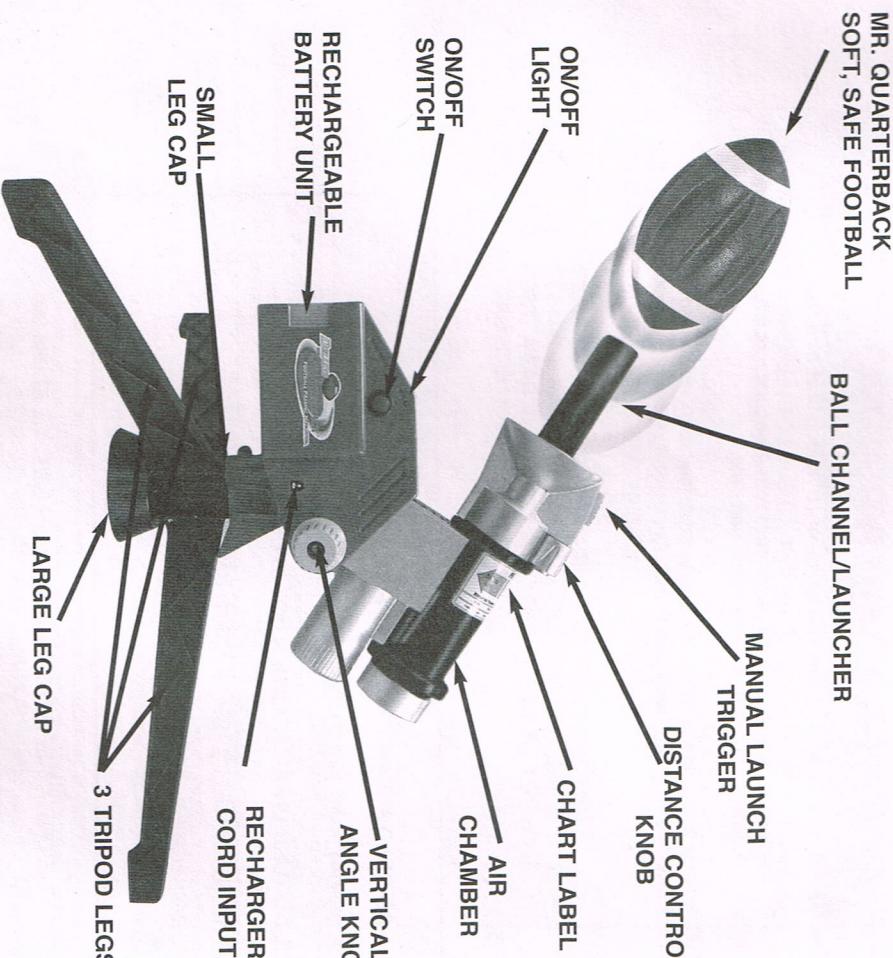

LENGTH OF PASS AND SNAP TIME

Playing Solo

Mr. Quarterback throws "time-based" passes. The longer the pass, the longer the snap time before you run your pass pattern. For example, if you are running a 5 yard button hook pass route, you should wait 8-12 seconds before running your route. If you are going out for a 30 yard "bomb", you will wait 16-20 seconds before you start running your pass route. Always reference the chart.

Playing With A Friend

Take turns running routes and controlling the machine. Manual mode allows you to control the location of the throw by pivoting the top of the machine from left to right. The manual trigger (on top of the machine as pictured) lets you launch the pass at the desired time. (NOTE: if you launch the ball too soon, the pass will not travel far. You must allow the machine to build up enough energy before activating launch).
